

Weapon of Mass Destruction – Movie Reviews

I watched it and was overwhelmed. What do you want me to do? You are a saint to have made it. - Ben Stein

Like so many people [at the Liberty Film Festival in West Hollywood] I was moved by your film. I have never once seen people come up to a filmmaker in tears thanking him for his effort. - Robert J., Fullerton, CA

I am the father of a missing soldier in Iraq, Sgt. Matt Maupin, captured 9 April 2004. Your site said you would mail a copy of your video to any soldier serving there [would]...you send me a copy[?] It will be here when Matt gets home. - Keith Maupin

Filmmakers Brad Maaske and Kurdish/American Jano Rosebiani have provided the world with long overdue heart-wrenching visual evidence that millions of human beings were living a literal hell on earth. How ironic. Hell in the Cradle of Civilization.... The voiceovers were not even necessary. We could look into people's eyes and souls and feel what they were saying. - Doug, Upland

"I am a 28 year old Marine SSgt.... Your video was watched by my detachment one day, and everyone had looks on their faces of pure shock!!! There just seemed to be so much information that we never knew.... All of us believe what we are doing in Iraq and Afghanistan is 110% necessary and just!! - Andrew K.

WMD: The Murderous Reign of Saddam Hussein is intended to remind Americans that Saddam Hussein was himself a weapon of mass destruction, responsible for the deaths of 1.3 million of his own people during his brutal 30 years of rule. - WorldNetDaily

I've always been one for seeking/finding the truth, even if sometimes some of it's painful.... Please keep sending your message of truth and know that you, too, are very much appreciated. - Steve M., US Embassy, Baghdad

I am a US Army Artilleryman stationed near Balad, Iraq. I wanted to thank you so much for your effort on this film. It's been the most inspirational film I've watched since I've been here.... I was AMAZED. - PFC Matthew Haynes Marcus

It is doubly important to watch this remarkable DVD, created not by a leading journalist interested in the truth, but by an ordinary man frustrated by the dinosaur media's stonewalling who decided to take the task upon himself.... This is an important film, I take my hat off to Mr. Maaske and his team. These people...are reshaping the world of journalism, have done the work that's supposed to be done by the Dan Rather's of the world. - Jim Bray, Technofile.com

Footage of Ali Hassan al-Majeed, aka 'Chemical Ali,' detailing on camera his genocidal plans is truly chilling, as are eyewitness accounts of mass executions at Mahaweel camp, of prison torture in Kirkuk and of chemical bombings in Halabja. It strikes the viewer that the accumulated testimony is ideal for the prosecution now readying its case against Saddam in his upcoming trial. - Robert Koehler, Daily Variety-Hollywood

WMD...must be seen by those who question why we went to war in Iraq. It might not change the minds of the most rabid Bush haters....but it will change the hearts and minds of those who have hearts and minds." - Doug, Upland
