What if you could fly from Baltimore to Ocean City in 35 minutes? For only $45?

I just wanted a direct flight on a corporate jet, the best in security, and free parking...for under $50. Was that too much to ask?

—Wayne Simmons, President of Simmons Air

Annapolis, MD—In mid-August, Wayne Simmons' dream will become a reality. His new airline Simmons Air will provide up to nine on-demand round-trip flights daily from Baltimore to Ocean City. Flights are priced at less than $99 round trip! It is no longer just the corporate elite that will know the feeling of having a personal airplane simply waiting to whisk them away—but everyone will now feel like a first class executive when they fly with Simmons Air.

Say goodbye to bump-to-bumper traffic, indirect flights and the grueling question “are we there yet?”—now, in only 35 minutes, you can land just three miles outside Ocean City. Simmons Air will even arrange for their strategic partner, Enterprise Rent-A-Car, to have a shuttle waiting for passengers to travel off-site to their nearby rental location.

Baltimore residents: take a walk on the beach, have lunch with a client, or golf at one of the finest courses on the east coast. Ocean City residents: catch an Orioles game, dine at the Inner Harbor, or tour the Baltimore Museum of Art. Simmons Air passengers can now do all of this and be back home in time for dinner in their own hometowns!

For all passengers, Simmons Air provides:

- Tickets for $45—buy on a whim or in advance for the same price
- The highest level of safety and security—go from terminal to plane in ten minutes or less
- Luxury Cessna 404's with oversized seats and unmatched window views

Simmons Air is operated by Hinson Corporate Flight Services, who has been in business for over 65 years.
