

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
June 9, 2008

Contact: Kristen Schremp
703.928.5527, kristen@kaspublicity.com

Exclusive Interviews with Dozens of American Icons Shatter the Shocking Misconceptions of Modern Conservatives

When you think of red states, do you think of homes on Central Park and in the Hollywood Hills, or do you think of stupid, redneck hicks in Oklahoma? The media can't have it both ways. There is only one elite, and it's the left.

—Glenn Beck on the contradictory myths of a typical Republican

New York, NY— Racist! Warmonger! Religious extremist! These are not descriptions of dictators or religious zealots—instead, they are some of the astonishing stereotypes of modern Conservatives. To counter these scathing accusations, authors S.E. Cupp and Brett Joshpe secured dozens of exclusive interviews from political pundits on both sides of the spectrum, popular culture celebrities, sports icons and business leaders and coupled those with their own personal insights to reveal Why You're Wrong About the Right.

Ranging from concrete facts to laugh-out-loud commentary, Newt Gingrich, Al Leiter, Tucker Carlson, Laura Ingraham, Ted Nugent, Shelby Steele, Tony Stewart, Glenn Beck and even Bubba the Love Sponge—along with dozens more—provide the ammunition to shatter the most shocking claims about the Right.

Armed with this comprehensive cache of knowledge and tired of feeling like deep-cover conservatives in left-leaning Manhattan; Cupp and Joshpe employ hard-hitting facts, to dispel the claims of the Left that:

- Republicans don't care about the planet—even though the 104th Republican-led Congress passed fourteen pieces of major environmental legislation, more than the previous four Democratic-led Congresses combined
- Republicans are NASCAR-loving rednecks—although nearly as many of those “rednecks” are Democratic. 28.2% of fans vote Republican, versus 26.8% vote Democratic and NASCAR is the fastest growing major sport among minorities
- Republicans are religious fanatics—yet even Bill Clinton stands firm in his belief that “the First Amendment does not require students to leave their religion at the schoolhouse door....we should not require them to refrain from religious expression”
- Enron's primary allegiance was with the Republican Party—when in fact, Lay and Enron gave about $900,000 to the DNC during Clinton's two terms

###

S.E. CUPP is a graduate student at New York University, reference writer for The New York Times and graduate of Cornell University. BRETT JOSHPE is a graduate of Cornell University and Harvard Law School, founder of Students for Protecting America, and currently practices law in New York City.

For more information, or to schedule an interview with S.E. Cupp or Brett Joshpe, please contact Kristen Schremp at Kristen@kaspublicity.com or 703.928.5527